Order of the Honourable The House of Commons, dated 7th April 1870 for COPY of Intermediate Report of Dr. Angus Smithy Chief Inspector under the Alkali Acts, 1863 and 1874, to the Local Government Boards of his Proceedings since the passing of the latter Act. Local Government Board,) JOHN LAMBERT, 5th April 1876. Secretary. INTERMEDIATE REPORT by Dr. Angus Smith, Chief Inspector under the Alkali Acts, 1863 and 1874, to the Local Government Board, of his Proceedings since the passing of the latter Act. My Lords and Gentlemen, 9th November 1875. It is my wish in this short Intermediate Report to speak from my own experience, as well as that of my colleagues, of the work done under the New Alkali Act. I do so more readily from the fact that an attack has been made on the working of the Act at a time when it was being most energetically pushed forward. I am sorry that any should say, in the very midst of our most anxious work, that it is not finished. Still they say rightly; it is not done, but it is begun and well begun, and advanced to such an extent as the most influential and best informed of the manufacturers declared to be impossible before the passing of the Act, and still consider impossible as an enduring state. It has been said that more gas was now escaping from the works than before. 37 88 Vict c. 48. I know this to be impossible. Additional works are put under inspection, and sending off little gas; at other works there is less escape than usual. One of the most experienced of the alkali makers gives an account of his expenses for repairs; they are certainly twice as much as under the old Act, and are a very serious amount (see Appendix). Another, in order to bring his work under the new Act, is obliged to condense down to one per cent., and with such facts in great abundance, I know that less gas is escaping. It seems also to be for 07 Vt gott (Typographical errors above are
