

A sequel to The Technical Side of Architecture. What was presented in the original book and what is expanded on in this book will help improve the quality of Construction Documents, reduce errors and omissions and make the entire process more efficient. Get over the balls-to-the-wall, full speed ahead approach to the production of Construction Drawings and the last minute throwing together of Construction Specifications. Make your Construction Administrator more efficient by reducing questions, bulletin drawings and change orders during construction. There is a way to save time and money, while still doing the job right, the first time!!
